The Index.

ANOTHER year of the allotted four has taken its place in the immortal past. And in answer to the annual call we apply ourselves to the task of issuing the third number of "The Index." Hoping that it may be welcomed and approved by all

The Faculty Catalogue presents the College from their point of view. In it we have the curriculum, the various departments of study, the list of students, in fine, the crystallized shell in which we live; but one looking at an egg shell is scarcely reminded of the yolk within; so the reader of the Faculty Catalogue would form almost no conception of the throbbing, active life beneath that cold, formal exterior; to show the college from the Students' stand-point, as a living, active body is our purpose. And at the beginning we would say that The Index does not purport to be a literary journal, but merely a collection of college and class statistics, to any one but a member of the college, void of interest, but to a member of the college replete with interest, and will always, in the future, be a pleasant reminder of bygone days.

The past year is one long to be remembered by all connected with the College, especially so to the pioneer classes. We have seen the first class graduate from the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and no longer is she a childless institution; but is now exultant over her first Alumni. And in the future may the laurels won by her brave sons, return in their full glory and honor, and by them magnanimously laid at the feet of their Alma Mater, their rightful progenitor.

Already, we are happy to say, they have made their first contribution and that by no means insignificant, a handsome scholarship, and from the standard of scholarship required to obtain it, we surmise that in their opinion the standard of the College should be raised, which we hope may be the case.

We congratulate the College in obtaining the services of so eminent and practical a mathematician as Professor Peabody. An interesting and natural instructor, he at once gained the respect and admiration of the students; he will, we are confident be a most valuable, and we hope permanent, addition to the Faculty. Boating is still in the ascendant in the College, and we are confident that "what man has done man can do again," but for the present season we are perfectly satisfied with the glorious and flattering results of the Regatta at Ingleside in July last, in which, with magnificent ease, the Bucolics passed the goal in 16.46½, (from starting) the best time ever made, by a six-oared crew, in the annals of boating. And who doubts, seeing thus early its effects, the expediency and wisdom of permitting the students in our College to engage in boating. "Honor to whom Honor is due" long may it continue.

The prospects of the College were never better than at the present time. And in reviewing its career up to the present and seeing the desperate struggle it has encountered and successfully warded, the increasing interest of the public, the gradual awakening of the community to which the character of the College directly appeals, together with the active and energetic co-operation of its Faculty, we feel warranted in saying that the success of the College is inevitable.

Called upon to present for the last time our annual contribution to THE INDEX, we can well appreciate the quaint remark of an old French philosopher, "I would not choose to see even an old post pulled up with which I have long been acquainted." And these last duties, now so frequently appearing, unpleasantly bespeak disorganization and change.

We can hardly realize that three years have passed away since we began our College career, and that the beautiful writing of promise upon the woods, heralds the approach of our fourth and last winter at Amherst. Joyfully for some reasons, but sadly for others, we look forward to the day when our Senior mantles will fall upon other shoulders. Joyous—that we may begin in earnest life's battles, proving the worth of our outfit in the struggle, and our wisdom or folly in taking a "new departure" from the older system of educational training. Sad—that we must part from familiar, valued friends and scenes, and that four years of our happiest days can never be repeated.

Our relations with the Faculty have always been pleasant. We feel they have labored impartially and generously for our best interests, and if good results do not follow, the fault will be in the material, not in the artisans.

We shall always cherish grateful affection and regard, for him whose kindly interest, generous aid and enthusiasm has imparted zest and pleasure to our study of the languages, especially in our study of a subject—somewhat personal to many of us, “Taugenichts.” May his future days be as pleasant as will be our remembrance of him.

We heartily welcome the appointment of our new Professor in Mathematics, only regretting that it came too late in our Course.

We congratulate ourselves that as a class we have always worked together harmoniously, and that each succeeding year has woven around us a cord of friendship that separation, or the responsibilities of life may not sever.

When called upon to bid each other farewell, as we now are, to THE INDEX and its readers, our best wishes will always remain with the College and the classes coming after us.

Here we are again, Brother Collegians, changed it is true in regard to our name and outward semblance, but inwardly imbued with the same old Sophomoric spirit, which froths and sparkles in spite of all the efforts of Junior dignity to repel it.

We are changed, too, in numbers, several having left us during the past year; but, in spite of our losses, we present the same undaunted front and march "onward and upward," with linked arms, to that goal which is the pride of every student, graduation day, always bearing in mind the words of a famous orator, "the battle is not always to the strong alone, but to the active, the vigilant, the brave."

With the Prof's we are just in our sphere. We do all in our power to lighten their hard tasks, and to make them merry, cheer them on with an occasional song. We regret to say, however, that some of the Prof's look upon our endeavors from a different point of view than that intended, and would rather increase their work by hearing us recite than give us pleasure by allowing us to "bolt."

We are extremely gratified to see on our return that the Mathematical chair has finally been entirely filled, not merely occupied, and we are glad to say the College has at last a "lever of the first class." As to the other departments, none have been materially changed unless it be "class work." We have left our former Prof., and are now following the advices of the new "Prof. of Horticulture," at that "pride of the Junior class," the Plant house.

And now, in conclusion, we would tender our hearty congratulations to the College on its receiving a sufficient competency to enable it to act for itself. It was hard to work without money and against prejudice, but having the one, we hope in time to live down the other; and now, classmates, as we journey through the world of College life, and as the tide of Junior year ebbs away, let us think joyfully of the coming days,

“ When we’re Seniors, and we’ve naught at all to do.”

F.

One year of our College life has passed and we now find ourselves at the commencement of our Sophomore year with a decrease in our class of five members. Our Freshman year was as "quiet and undisturbed" as could have been expected, and it was especially so after the last of those series of battles by the "Bridge of Rushes,".

We think that we did very well in our studies for a class that entered under such unfavorable auspices.

It is not our fault if we do not stand as high in mathematics as in our other studies. Perhaps if we had so chosen we might have done better in this branch, but human nature will have to be changed before men will study when they can get as high a mark by sponging. In chemistry we are doing the work of the second term of this year.

In beautifying the grounds we flatter ourselves that we are not much behind any other class, having set out over thirty trees and otherwise improved the grounds between the North Dormitory and Laboratory. Let '75 go and do likewise.

There is one thing in which we claim to be, and are, ahead of any other class, that is in our treatment of the Freshmen.

We have treated them like gentlemen and the good feeling between the classes was shown by their having a game of foot ball (than which no other game offers better opportunities) without having a Rush.

We hope that '75 will treat '76 in the same manner, always remembering the oft repeated Golden Rule.

C.

The class of '75 M. A. C., although behind the four pioneer classes in point of time, is ahead of them in several other ways, in some of which it will no doubt, be in turn surpassed by those that follow. It has the largest number of members, (fifty including specials,) representing eight of the states and the Japanese and Indian Nations, the highest average in regard to age, and, partly, no doubt, on this account it passed the best average examination of all the classes yet admitted. Its size is due, in general, to the high reputation the college has already achieved, which was much increased both in extent and degree, by the glorious victory of the "University Crew" in the regatta at Ingleside last July; a victory, which at once established the name and fame of the Massachusetts Agricultural College in the boating world, and with all interested in boating matters. In scholarship, &c., the class of '75 will endeavor to maintain its standing throughout the career so favorably begun.

One feature worth noticing is the presence of the Japanese members of the class sent here by their government to study our language, as well as those branches of science in which the Western nations, although much younger, are ahead of the eastern.

The "Sophs" have (kindly,) not "rushed" us as yet, one reason being probably our numbers; but the honor of '75 has been maintained whenever an opportunity offered, as in the foot-ball match with '74 on the Fair Grounds, at the time of the Cattle Show, when we came sadly near beating them all three games, instead of two out of three, as actually happened. Of "hazing" there has been little or none, excepting the delicately perfumed (chemical) attentions paid to a few favored individuals, and by them, no doubt, fully appreciated.

As a class we have but one real grievance,—the want of a friend of the military persuasion, and our consequent continued deprivation of the delights of the afternoon hours so often passed heretofore in exploring (on the double quick) the outlying portions of the farm, or in being "set up" vigorously it is true, but after the latest and most approved style. No doubt "there is a good time coming and it is almost here" but when will our long looked for (West) Pointer discover it to us?

Other matters are on the whole as satisfactory as we could expect, and by cultivating such roots as pluck, patience and perseverance (also "square" and "cube" in their varied forms when presented to us) we hope to do honor to ourselves, as a class, while here, and individually to the college, after our graduation.
